The pistol habit fits naturally into the habit of the crank.

May body has abused one great opportunity. Should he be trusted with just now.

The New York and New Jersey Bridge bill escaped a collision with senatorial dignity.

It ought to be true that the wealth of New Yorkers is the wealth of New York. Is it true?

Supt. Byrnes' prison bar remedy will go a good way towards shutting off the epidemic of crankism.

Mr. Gaynor is still on deck in Kings County. He will attend to the sinking of those Gravesend "floaters."

"Money Mad" as it has been revived by a case of cranks, must not be encouraged by a long run in New York.

Now let the House illustrate by example the difference between Senatorial courtesy and pure business principles.

Gravesend "floaters" will not be gathered in "blocks of five." But if they are, they may find them in the chain gang.

All is not wild that blusters. There is a marvelous degree of practical progress back of the loud talk and superb self-confidence of Chicago.

There is nothing for the House to debate in the Revised bill, as the Senate bill is therefore there is no excuse for debating. Act! is the word.

"The World's" relief train for the Southern sufferers will start at noon on the coming Saturday. You have time yet to add to its load of practical blessings.

Forty-three dangerous derelicts are afloat in the North Atlantic. There will be business for the Vesuvius and her gun cotton for some time in blowing these wrecks out of water.

With a six-track bridge over the North River, and with the New England road making a direct entrance into New York, the metropolis will experience a sudden and welcome boom in immediate railway facilities.

It is the better part of wisdom to guard the President until the present campaign has passed. Washington advises that that is what is being done. But the chances are overwhelming that there won't be the least need of active service by the guards.

Boys of the College of the City of New York should take notice that the school is not essential evidence of a bad character. Last night's ruffianism in a theatre should be the last in which these too exuberant young gentlemen cut a disgraceful figure.

Heart disease struck down Foreman Murphy, of Eugene, O., just as he was stepping upon his machine to answer a telegram yesterday. He had been twenty-four hours in faithful service. He died without a word left a more honorable record than that for his obituary.

It is a serious report that is made concerning the top-heaviness of the new Detroit, Machine, Montgomery,

Marblehead and Castine. A pretty sum of money will be required to set these ships right. The only fortunate circumstance is that it didn't take a Victoria-Camperdown disaster to reveal the gross blunder made in the construction and armament of the vessels.

A POLITICAL JUDICIARY.

It is very generally conceded that a political judiciary would be a public evil. No intelligent man would argue that it would promote the public interest to make the courts or law political arenas and to elect partisans as judges. Yet that is precisely what is being proposed to place Judge Maynard on the bench of the Court of Appeals.

Judge Maynard is a thorough politician and has always been a partisan of one faction or another. He has been relied upon to do work that less devoted party men might have hesitated to perform. When it was necessary to get hold of the Dutchess County election returns before they were formally filed and return them to the County Clerk, it was entirely natural that the political leaders should turn to Maynard as the person to take the proposition to place Judge Maynard on the bench of the Court of Appeals.

For this act, and for this alone, Judge Maynard was rewarded with the Governor's appointment to a Court of Appeals vacancy, and is now nominated for that position by the political leaders at whose bidding he performed the service. He is, therefore, made a candidate for the bench simply on account of his political usefulness, and not because of any qualification he possesses for a high judicial office.

Judge Maynard should be elected by the people, not by a political party. He is of an age when it would be impossible for him to get rid of the habits and the sentiments of a lifetime. He would be as ready to do a partisan service on the bench of the Court of Appeals as he was when Deputy Attorney-General. How can any good citizen, who regards a political judiciary as a public evil, vote for Isaac H. Maynard for Judge of the Court of Appeals?

THE CRANK CRUP.

The crank crup promises to be plentiful this season. It must indeed be a fine harvest when these worthless begin to visit the police stations and to demand the payment of money from police officers.

The "Gould crank" and the desperate crank of the Broadway collar were yesterday supplemented by the crank who went straight to Headquarters and wanted $10,000 of Supt. Byrnes himself, another, of a more desperate character, who walked into the East Thirty-fifth street station and demanded $5,000 of Supt. Fagan, making a desperate fight when taken to the Fifty-seventh street court; a third who had a mission to kill the Cuban Consul and a number of others, the majority of whom are after money or blood.

Supt. Byrnes said yesterday that he would lock the cranks up whenever he found them, a determination that is not likely to be changed by reason of his own experience, however mild-mannered his visitor may have been. Certainly such people ought to be subjected to some kind of restraint.

SOCIETY IN QUOD.

At the Police Court yesterday the identity of one Hallett Alsop Borrowe having been established before his arraignment, he was separated from the common herd, shown courteously to the Judge's private room, given a private hearing while the "noon" was kept waiting, and then bowed respectfully out of the court-room, all charges having been withdrawn.

The next "drunk and disorderly" case, a laborer who had taken a drop too much, in addition to dropping asleep in the streets, was given "ten dollars or ten days."

AN INTERCHANGE OF JAGS.

A properly sombered Texan stood before Justice Hogan, in the Jefferson Market Police Court yesterday morning, charged with being drunk. He acknowledged the corn. He said he thought he was the only one who had been there must have been intoxicated the night before, but he was a police magistrate himself in the Lone Star State, and if Justice Hogan were brought before him down there on a charge of being drunk he would certainly discharge him. Justice Hogan felt that this was an argumentum ad hominem that was ninety-nine per cent. proof and let the prisoner go.

The Justice now owes himself a first class "bat" in Austin, where the Texan Bench ornaments or holds court. He has to the extent, at least, of one full-grown adult's dose of jags. The Texas Judge has put himself on record, and when Justice Hogan feels that he needs a little recreation with tangle-foot trimmings all he has to do is pack his trunk and get forth for Austin. Tex. He may think after he has tackled Texas whiskey that centipedes are making nests in his hair and trantulas are biting button-holes in the rim of his hat, but he will not have to pay a fine or go to jail.

MYSTERY ABOUT A DEATH.

Effort Made to Bury a Woman Without a Death Certificate.

Coroner Cramer, of Williamsburg, was notified to-day of the death of a woman, without medical attendance. Mrs. Lena Rubenstein, of 318 Boerum street. There is thought to be some mystery about the case, as the fact of the death was not reported until this morning, and it is believed the woman died without a medical or coroner's attendance. She lived with her husband and four children.

MONMOUTH PARK NOT TO BE SOLD.

Secretary Crickmore Says It Will Be Open Next Summer as Usual.

The report in a New Jersey newspaper that Monmouth Park be sold in the near future, is denied by the officials of the property at Long Branch.

Secretary Crickmore, who was seen by an "Evening World" reporter, said: "I am not aware that there was any intention of disposing of Monmouth. The whole thing is a fake, and undoubtedly it will be refuted by the time it is published. There will be racing there next Summer (the same as usual)."

"Good Government Club B" has been

Incorporated at Albany for the special purpose of reforming New York. But why turn the big parties into good government clubs? There are not enough to work in those directions and spare the alphabet?

HILL NOT TO SPEAK.

Senator Murphy Vetoes the Plan for Another Meeting Here.

Thinks It Unwise to Defend Judge Maynard Further.

Says that More Talk Would Be Evidence of Weakness.

Senator Edward Murphy, Jr., Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, has vetoed the plan to hold another meeting in this city, at which Senator Hill and East-Clay, Shuman were to speak. Another speech from Senator Hill, it was thought, might offset the effect of the anti-Maynard faction's recent gains.

Clerk DeForest made the announcement yesterday that Senator Hill would positively speak.

Senator Murphy, it is said, declared that such a course would be ill-advised at this time. It was only a few days before election, and to rally Maynard's supporters on such short notice might be taken as a sign of weakness, and would hurt instead of strengthen the cause. So the call for the proposed meeting was not issued.

Senator Hill is expected in the city to-day. He will direct the battle until the close. As commander-in-chief he may countermand the orders of his colleagues, Senator Murphy. He is not likely to do so, however, as he has the greatest confidence in the wisdom and ability of Murphy as a campaign manager.

"SHORE ACRES."

It is not James A. Herne's unconventional, as many people suppose, that attracts so much attention in his offerings to the stage. It is his truth, the unerring brush with which he paints familiar colors, and his peculiar gift of being able to detect the humorous and the pathetic amid the sometimes squallous details of daily life. Most playwrights present a series of episodes that are faithful in spots only. They are afraid to be too natural, in the dread of becoming commonplace, so they call in the aid of theatrical devices—the villain, the wronged woman, the climax—before each curtain, and the feeling of the lovers at the end of the play. No wonder that the perpetual theatre-grover grows weary. He has the same diet every night. The incessant water-proof will wear out a stone.

Mr. Herne is not afraid to be natural, and he certainly is never commonplace. In "Shore Acres" which had its second performance at the Fifth Avenue Theatre last night, he has written a play so absolutely satisfying to truth that one marvels at the directness of some of the touches, that are apparently chosen for their realism. The play is a series of episodes in this play—episodes that cause the eyes to moisten and the straps of convention that bend a man rigidly into his mundane shell, to loosen their hold. Such a play must be educational and beneficial in its influence. I would take upon myself to say that it is a play that is upon its efforts than all the sermons that could inundate those who are not criminals—to you and to me who have nothing more hopeless than the sinner, the sinner, the sinner. A sweet and fragrant zephyr, blowing into a sort of dulcet appreciation of neglected duties.

We saw at this same theatre the grime and the nature of Mr. Thomas's "In Mizkura," and we can now count on the success of the campaign. The "In Mizkura" and we can now count on the success of the campaign. The "In Mizkura" and we can now count on the success of the campaign.

TURNED INTO THE STREET.

Neither Brother Nor Uncle Would Shelter Maggie Coyle.

Many Lost Children Picked Up by the Police.

Maggie Coyle, a pretty, dark-haired girl, has been a Police Headquarters since Monday night, in the care of Matron Travers. She was found at Seventh Avenue and Thirtieth street towards midnight by Patrolman Geo. Reid, of the Tenderloin Precinct. Maggie said that she lived with her brother in Marion, N. J., since her parents died not long ago.

Her sister-in-law did not like her, Maggie said, and Monday she gave her money with which to pay her fare to this city, where her uncle lived. She had been unable to find this uncle, for at the address given no such person lived. Maggie said she wandered about the streets part of the day, and was crying as her heart would break when she thought of her parents.

The policeman thought that he could help the girl, and he took her to the Tenderloin Precinct. The uncle's house was taken, but the uncle refused to take his niece in, saying that she was a sick man and unable to support her.

The uncle was obstinate, and Maggie was turned out into the street. She was taken to the Tenderloin Precinct, where she was found by the police. The uncle was obstinate, and Maggie was turned out into the street. She was taken to the Tenderloin Precinct, where she was found by the police.
